SIX GERMAN ASSAULTS REPULSED

(By Associated Press)
London, August 11.—Six German assaults were made on the British positions in Flanders to the east of Ypres, according to the British official statement. All of the attacks were broken down with heavy losses.

Field Marshal Haig reports more gains on the Ypres-Menu region.

POLICE COURT

John J. Joyce and Gingar Colussi, charged with attempted larceny from the person of John J. Flaherty of York, were heard in police court today and both strongly denied the charge. Fred McLaughlin, a signal man on the Boston and Maine testified that he saw one of the pair reach into the pocket of Flaherty, but could not say whether or not he got any money. The circumstances surrounding the case satisfied the court that there was probable cause and they were both held for the grand jury in the sum of $400 each.

J. E. Rennie was charged with the larceny of potatoes from the garden of a man named Biddle on Blwyn road. The explanation of the defendant satisfied the court that Rennie was not a regular garden prowler and a sentence of three months in jail and costs of $7.50 was suspended.

James P. King, from somewhere in Maine and lately of Newington was engaged in freaking on Congress street on Friday. Some women complained of James and the cops did the rest. For the little outing, James separated himself from $16.48 today in the court.

WAR TAX BILL UNDER DEBATE IN THE SENATE

Senator Simmons Says the Senate Revision Will Tax the Prosperous Much More Heavily Than the House Bill

WOMAN AND SON KILLED BY EXPRESS

(By Associated Press)
Warner, August 11.—Mrs. Leonard Flanders and son Earl, aged 13, were killed at Weeks' Crossing when their horse bolted and ran on the track in front of the White Mountain express.

Mrs. Flanders was the wife of a prosperous lumber dealer and besides her husband leaves three children.

DOVER WILL CALL 300 MORE MEN

One Hundred and Ten Accepted So Far Out of 261.

Three hundred more men for the war draft will be called before the war board in Strafford county, the first hundred to appear on Monday. The board has so far called 261 men and 110 of them have passed and been accepted.

With the meatless and breadless days—may we expect sockless and dressless days? There is already a scarcity of dress on the summer girl.

Portsmouth is absolutely free from all contagious diseases.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, Aug. 11.—The $2,600,000 war tax bill, as redrafted by the special committee of the senate, was the subject of the debate today.

Senator Simmons who resumed his speech declared the changes made will greatly increase the tax burden to be borne by the big corporations, who have profited from the war.

In a detailed statement, Senator Simmons said the committee had weighed every schedule carefully during its many weeks of consideration and that the bill as now presented would place the tax where it belonged, without working injustice to anyone.

The senator said the senate revisions would tax the prosperous much more heavily than had the house bill. "Certain corporations in this country are going to be made to disgorge, in order to pay the expenses of this war, a very considerable proportion of their income," said Senator Simmons. "The 1916 war profits exceed three billion dollars. The house bill proposed a ridiculously small sum from the swollen war profits. It was entirely too lenient to the men who have reaped this harvest of gold—gold they exacted out of the earnings of those who must bear the burdens of this struggle."

WILL SLAUGHTER ALL CATTLE

In Germany Except the Milch and Those Indispensable to Take Place of Draft Horses

(By Associated Press)

Copenhagen, August 11.—Representatives of the German farmers' interests and war food bureau in discussing the shortage of fodder decided it was necessary for the drastic slaughter of cattle during the fall and winter.

The failure of the pasturage and the shortage of hay and clover was shown and the only way to save potatoes and grain was the slaughter of cattle.

In order to avoid the early mistake of supplying fodder barely enough to keep the cattle alive, it was advised to market all cattle except the milch and those indispensable to take the place of draft horses.

MUTINOUS TROOPS ARE SUBDUED

(By Associated Press)

Petrograd, Aug. 11.—A portion of a Ukrainian regiment, as it was passing through Kiev, opened fire on the Curassiers who were guarding the station. The Curassiers fired in return and a battle ensued.

When the Ukrainians reached the next station an entire regiment of Curassiers was in waiting and hostilities were again resumed. When the Curassiers brought out a machine gun the mutineers surrendered.

Fourteen dead were brought to Kiev and about 50 wounded.

REFUSE TO DISCUSS THE REPORT

(By Associated Press)

Stockholm, August 11.—The foreign office today refused to discuss the report first published in Christiania that Sweden was to take the initiative in inviting the European neutrals to a conference in Stockholm. While refusing to discuss the question it was fusing to discuss the question it was Scandinavian country to secure the co-operation of the neutrals as far as possible.

MUNITION PLANT IS DESTROYED

(By Associated Press)

Gary, Ind., Aug. 11.—Fire today caused a half a million loss when the Acme Mills were destroyed by an explosion. Two employees named Holt and Chesser have been arrested. The mill was under government contract and manufactured 46,000 pounds of gun cotton a week. The antecedents of Holt and Chesser are being looked up.

POLICE GET A PAIR OF CROOKS

Actions Cause Suspicion at North End on Friday.

John J. Joyce and a running mate who gave his name as Gingar Colussi, both claiming Boston as their home port, were arrested on Market street on Friday afternoon on a complaint which would indicate that they were members of the light fingered gentry. They stuck close to John Flaherty of York who had a bundle of money and their actions and love for John, on short acquaintance attracted the attention of railroad men and others who tipped off the police. They were charged with attempted larceny from person. When searched at the police headquarters an inspector's badge of the Boston health department was found on Joyce.

D'SAULLES MADE THREATS AGAINST WIFE

Maid Who Accompanied Her
Gives Strongest Possible
Testimony in Favor of Her Mistress.

New York, August 10.—Suzanne Montano, the French maid who accompanied Mrs. Blanca de Saulles on her trip on the night of August 3 to "The Box" at Westbury, where she shot and killed her divorced husband John Long de Saulles, gave the strongest possible testimony in favor of her mistress when her deposition was taken yesterday afternoon in the office of Dist. Atty. Weeks of Nassau county as part of the record of the inquest.

The maid said that Mrs. De Saulles, in starting on the trip shortly after 8 o'clock had told the chauffeur to hurry in order that she might get the boy away from De Saulles before arriving home; that De Saulles had told her that she could not have the boy "now or ever," and that she believed De Saulles was on the point of striking her when she fired.

Her testimony strongly supports the contention of the "box" case that the murder was not premeditated. The statement of Mrs. De Saulles herself was that the "box" had informed her that De Saulles was at the Meadowbrook Hunt club and would not return until after 9 o'clock.

The maid's story agrees perfectly with the story of Mrs. De Saulles that she "helped to get possession" of the boy without seeking her husband, and that she killed her husband on a sudden impulse which the defense will contend was born in an "overwrought and temporarily unbalanced mind."

After a few preliminary questions, the maid was asked to tell what Mrs. De Saulles had said and done just before starting on the trip to "The Box." She said:

"She told the taxi man to drive as fast as he could to 'The Box,' because she said we would be able to get the baby and get back before Mr. De Saulles returned from the club."

"Did she tell you that or did she tell that to the driver?" asked Henry A. Utherhart, counsel for Mrs. De Saulles.

"She told the driver to hurry—she told me that we could get the boy and get away before Mr. De Saulles came back."

"When we got to 'The Box,' she continued, 'we left the taxi not very far from the house and walked to the front door. We saw Mr. De Saulles sitting on the stairs with the baby. Mrs. De Saulles asked for her husband."

"What did she say?" asked Dist. Atty. Weeks.

"She said 'I want to see Mr. De Saulles.' Then Mr. De Saulles came toward us. She said: 'I don't think it is very nice for you to keep the baby so late and let me know anything about it. I don't think it is very nice.'"

"Mr. De Saulles said: 'Blancette, you can't have the baby now or ever.' Dist. Atty. Weeks interrupted to ask if Mr. De Saulles had used the words 'now or ever.' She replied: 'He said, 'You can't have now or ever.'"

Mrs. De Saulles turned very pale at this, the maid said and asked: "I can't have my baby?"

"No," replied De Saulles, according to the maid. Then Mrs. De Saulles began to shout. The maid stopped her story by assuming the attitude of Mr. and Mrs. De Saulles. She described De Saulles jumping forward to the door opening out on the porch when Mrs. De Saulles said she "wanted to talk to him. He leaned his shoulder against the door in rather a bored attitude, according to the maid's description."

"They were about eight feet apart when De Saulles gave the final 'No' to her. Mrs. De Saulles reached her right hand into the left pocket of her white silk sweater. The maid was asked how De Saulles looked at this time. She said: "Before she shot him he looked terrible. Oh, my, his eyes were terrible! He looked as if he would jump on her."

"Did he look as if he would strike her?" asked Dist. Atty. Weeks.

"Yes."

"How far was his wife from him when you noticed this look?"

The maid indicated that the distance was about eight feet and that Mrs. De Saulles stepped swiftly towards him as she drew the revolver and approached within two feet of him when she began to fire. Contradicting the stories of other witnesses that De Saulles had turned away from his former wife and that she had fired the first shot into his back, the maid said:

"She took the revolver out and shot him. He didn't move. He had his face towards her. She shot him in front three times and then he turned."

"Nobody said anything. Nobody moved. Everybody was there. She put the gun on a table and said: 'Now call a policeman. We waited a few minutes and the police came.'"

The maid's deposition will be turned over to Justice of the Peace Jones who will later report his verdict on the inquest.

ON DEVELOPING THE LEFT HAND

About Four Percent of Population Use It in Place of the Right

Is it wise to teach children to use the right hand for doing all the things they do with one hand?

But Mr. Delaney, the French biologist declares that the habit of moving to the right in passing others, the preference for using the right wall of a room when we have to feel our way through it in the dark, and the tendency to deviate to the right when we try to walk a straight line blindfolded, are not acquired by instruction but are responsive to an instinct that begins to show itself in a normal child in its third year.

He carries his theory so far as to suggest that the current of human migration for settling the earth which has been steadily westward, may be due to the fact that if we face the sun in the fullness of the day, the west is toward our right.

In 1910 the German army contained by actual count, less than four percent of left handed soldiers. That confirms in a measure, Lombroso's observation that the normal proportion of left-handed men in society at large is four per cent. The percentage of left-handedness among women and children is higher than among men, under corresponding conditions.

Most women if asked to draw a circle swing the pencil to the left. Their picture making commonly has the same leaning.

Although no one has ever advocated training children to use the left hand exclusively, there is a widespread sentiment in favor of teaching them to use both hands with equal facility.

In Germany the movement has been pushed with greater vigor than elsewhere. Its advocates say that it has an important bearing on the matter of speech; that the language centre, which is an exclusively right handed person, is on the left side of the brain; ought not to be his sole dependence for the expression of his thoughts, when by cultivating both hands, it is possible to give him two language centers, one on each side.

"By way of prove that it is possible to invigorate the right center—even after it has been rendered useless by neglect, they cite the case of a German who in his boyhood, lost his left hand by a gunshot wound and replaced it with an artificial one. Seventeen years later he was stricken with paralysis, perhaps through the overstrain put upon his right hand and the left side of his brain. The stroke robbed him of the use of all of the muscles on the right side of his body, and of his power of speech."

The only way he could communicate with his attendants was by scribbling with a pencil fastened to his wooden left hand. By degrees this mode of writing became less difficult, and he began to form his letters with some facility.

Corresponding with his improvement in the employment of his left hand, the right side of his brain steadily developed until his power of speech came back to him.

Ambidexterity was one of the hobbies cherished by the late Charles Reade, Dr. Alexander, Mott of New York and Dr. Bancroft of Philadelphia could use either hand with ease. So could Leonardo da Vinci and Michael Angelo. Holbein used his left hand by preference; Menzel made his oil painting with his right hand but his drawing and aquatints with his left.

Julius Caesar and the historian Tacitus are said to have been left handed as well as the philosopher Schopenhauer, the late Queen Victoria and former Speaker Cannon.

WILL APPEAL TO NEW ENGLAND GRADUATES

The appeal to 250,000 graduates of New England institutions of learning from the years 1909 to 1917, inclusive, will be started early in September. The inducement to become an aviator or balloon pilot will be set forth in the communication which will be printed and contain the views of all of the forty-eight states in the Union service as expressed by the governors now being received at the Department of Aeronautical Headquarters. The views of other prominent men will also be included.

After the war probably 20,000 aeroplanes and many dirigible airships will be available for the mammoth commercial airfleet of the United States, Canada, Mexico and South America. The young men now learning will be the operators of this fleet of airships. The future employment of all entering the air service is almost certain.

EXETER

Exeter, August 11.—The funeral services of John Hall were held yesterday afternoon at the cemetery chapel by Rev. Victor M. Houghton, rector of the Christ church. The body was placed in the tomb temporarily pending the hearing from relatives in England. Mr. Hall was a native of that country, and is thought to have a brother living in Scarborough, cablegrams have failed to locate him.

The engagement is announced of Miss Beatrice Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Diana W. Baker to Delbert L. Newton of Lenox, Mass.

Roger Pike and family of Rutland, Vt., is visiting his old home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Curtis and Howard Curtis of Warren, Mass., are visiting Miss Anna M. French of Elm street.

During a heavy thunder shower which passed over here at four o'clock yesterday morning lightning struck a number of telephone poles on the Stratham road, putting the line out of commission, and causing much work for the linemen in replacing the wires which were also struck. No damage was reported about town, but a heavy rainfall resulted during the morning hours.

Edward B. Jennings of Lincoln street was the largest contributor to the fund for the coast artillery, he giving $100. Among the other large ones was Gen. Albert N. Dow with $50.

Kensington will hold its benefit for the Red Cross on Monday evening when Mrs. John M. Howe of Exeter will give a reading, James C. Rathbone vocal selections, and Frank E. Poore as cornetist will take part in the orchestra for dancing.

Miss E. Dorothy Hatch who was graduated from the state college last June has been appointed as teacher of German and botany in the High school at Orleans, Mass.

Mr. Joseph S. Ford, accompanied by his mother and sister are spending a vacation at Christmas Cove, Me. Fletcher N. Robinson is at the head of the academy office during his absence.

Frank B. Perry of the Amesbury Daily News was an Exeter visitor yesterday on business.

The Lyndoch Camp Fire Girls are to hold a sale this afternoon at the vacant office in the McNeil Co. building, the proceeds to go towards the gathering expenses at Raymond next week.

WAR BOARD WILL CALL 150 MORE

Only 26 Declined Exemption in District 2 York County.

The War Board of District 2, York county, issued a call today for 150 more men who registered under the selective draft. They are to appear at the Town hall, Kennebunk, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

The district 2 exemption board members have not as yet taken any action in regard to the exemption claims filed by the 73 young men who appeared before the board under the first call and took the physical examination last week. There will be nothing doing, according to Chairman Homer A. Waterhouse until the 15 days from the time the claims are filed have expired.

The quota requested from district No. 2, is 87.

In the first call 294 were summoned for examination, and 25 declined to ask for exemption and were accepted. Seventy-five were discharged on physical grounds, while nine were unaccounted for, and 15 had already enlisted. One died since registration, one was not in condition physically to appear before the board and three were transferred to other jurisdictions.

Now Is the Best Time to Buy a Hudson Super-Six

Today's Prices are Based on Last Year's Material Costs. Present Markets Have Already Forced $1 Makers to Add $100 to $700 to Their Prices

Former $1200 and $1400 cars now cost about as much as a Hudson Super-Six.

No changes warrant such an increase. They are practically the same as the cars which recently sold at $200 to $300 less than the Hudson Super-Six.

Cars in the $2000 class and up have increased from $350 to $700. That removes them further from the Hudson Super-Six price.

Increased cost of material is responsible for the higher prices.

Hudson prices have not increased this year. Our materials were contracted for months ago. When present supplies are exhausted then Hudsons, too, must cost more. Until then Hudson, because of its value, is the lowest priced car on the market.

Here is an indication of how prices have been affected. Consider just one item.

The principal material in a fine automobile is steel. All steel is made from iron.

For 25 years before the Great War the average price of iron was a few cents over $16 a ton. In December last it was $30 a ton. It now is $54 a ton.

Makers who bought materials this year must get more for their cars than for those built of materials bought last year.

Good Fortune for Hudson Buyers

Even when other cars sold at $200 to $300 less, Super-Six sales exceeded those of any two makes in the $1200 to $1400 class. Now that there is no such difference in price you can realize how much greater will be the demand for Hudsons. The present supply won't last long. Then Hudson, too, must cost more.

There can be preference now that former cheaper cars cost at much as the Super-Six.

Super-Six endurance makes it the preferred among fine cars. In every revealing test it has proved endurance unequalled by any other car.

All Due to the Super-Six Motor

Hudson leadership is due to the Super-Six motor. No other motor is like it. It minimizes vibration. That increases power and lengthens motor life. Vibration is the most destructive force in a motor. All Hudson tests show how by minimizing vibration endurance is obtained. The Super-Six is the most powerful automobile motor of its size known.

RED CROSS WILL MAKE NO DISTINCTION

Washington, Aug. 11.—Many questions have arisen as to the attitude of the American Red Cross toward Germans wounded on the battlefield, and also toward Americans of German origin affiliating themselves with Red Cross hospital units going abroad. To make clear the attitude of the Red Cross, Henry P. Davidson, chairman of the War Council, authorized the following statement:

When war was declared between the United States and Germany, the neutrality of the American Red Cross of course ended automatically. The American Red Cross can co-operate only behind the lines of the armies of the United States and its allies.

But the Red Cross knows no such thing as the nationality of a wounded man. Any wounded enemy turned over to the care of the American Red Cross will receive as kindly treatment as any friend.

The Red Cross will not only extend every aid and comfort to the armies of America and its allies, but it will assist in every possible way the sick, wounded and afflicted among the civilian populations among our allied countries. This is in conformity with the practice of the Red Cross Society in every country.

As to the policy of the Red Cross in this country toward those of German origin:

The Red Cross knows no difference and makes no distinction between any American citizen.

Insofar as base hospital units are concerned, the Red Cross employs and enlists the personnel of those to be sent to Europe to operate not only with our own armies but with those of our allies. Once enlisted and mustered into service, these units become part of the Army of the United States, and there is of course no discrimination by the Red Cross or the American Army against any loyal American citizen, no matter of what national origin.

Our Allies in Europe, however, have requested the American State Department not to permit persons born in enemy countries, or of parents born in an enemy country, to travel as civilians in any of the Allied countries. Representations, however, have been made by the Red Cross, which it is hoped will ultimately prove effective, whereby loyal American citizens on Red Cross service, may be exempted from the operation of this rule, no matter what the country of their origin.

The Red Cross wants it clearly understood that it welcomes the co-operation of every loyal American, and that it does not regard that loyalty as measured by the country of his origin.

WASTE NOT, WANT NOT.

How to Save Garden Surplus Is Described in Recent Bulletins.

Those who heeded the advice of the United States Department of Agriculture to plant gardens this year are now wondering how best to preserve their surplus fruits and vegetables. The specialists of the department, who have tried out various methods for canning, preserving, drying, pickling, and making jam have recently issued bulletins showing how this work may be done successfully. Anyone can have these publications for the asking.

The specialists of the proper procedure will not serve as a legitimate excuse for allowing any garden produce to spoil this year. The bulletins on canning also gives tried and tested recipes for making jams, fruit butters, marmalades, preserves, and jellies.

If You Can't Can, Dry.

When canning is not feasible or cans and jars are too expensive, drying offers a means of saving large quantities of surplus products which might waste each year. Drying also affords a way of conserving portions of food to share for canning. Drying may be done in the sun, over the kitchen stove, or before an electric fan. Part of the Army of the United States, men's bulletin #11 tells just how to do this, using one of the driers now

LEGAL STAFF OF SHIP BOARD RESIGNS

Lawyers Were in Sympathy With General Goethals and Whole Board Must Be Replaced by President

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Aug. 10.—The entire legal staff of the Emergency Shipping Board has resigned. The reason is given that the attorneys of the board favored the opinion of Major General George W. Goethals, former manager of the ship building corporation, in his contest against the members of the federal shipping board. The resignations took place several days ago but the information was not given out until tonight.

The legal staff of the board comprised some of the best attorneys in the country and included George Rublee of New Hampshire, former member of the Federal Trade Commission, John P. Cotton, George H. Savage, Charles P. Howland, of New York and Edward B. Burling of Chicago. All of the members of the staff with the exception of Mr. Savage were serving without compensation.

With the appointment of the five new attorneys and one member of the board the work of reorganizing the ship building plans of the government will be completed.

THE CHANCE OF MORTALITY AMONG DRAFTED MEN

Clients whose sons and friends have been called under the recent draft should get considerable comfort from a study of the mortality statistics of the armies in Europe. Of course it is very difficult to secure reliable figures, but we understand that about 60 men per thousand are being killed, and about 160 men out of each thousand are wounded, although most of these wounded return again to the trenches. This percentage of casualties is not high. Of course it cannot be compared with the normal death rate in peace times, which is about 8 per thousand for the ages of the men at the front. The great loss of previous wars has been from disease. This has been very largely eliminated. Some claim that a man at the front today is less liable to disease than if at home working in a city.

The mortality is very much less today than it was at the beginning of the war. The gas and other chemical forms of attack are being well handled at the present time. Men who are sensible and careful can well protect themselves against these things. Experience, both in the protection of the soldier and the care of the wounded, is constantly reducing the death rate in the war progress. With the exception of wounds obtained during charges, which of course are very dangerous, most wounds are in the arm and shoulder which can be easily healed, or in the skull. The skull wounds are naturally serious. Amputation of limbs is very much less than in previous wars.

The mortality varies considerably with the different branches of service. A man who is connected with the heavy field artillery is no more likely to be killed than if in the employ of the railroads, but the fellows engaged in certain other branches are in much more danger. It is also said that the mortality among certain classes of officers, such as lieutenants, sergeants and corporals is proportionally very much greater than among privates. It is very interesting to see how much greater the mortality is among volunteer corps than among drafted men.

We believe that the drafted man who goes as an ordinary soldier, taking his judgment with him, and leaving his enthusiasm at home, is not only most effective, but is fairly sure to return in better physical condition than when he left. Of course, during the one or more days a month that it is his turn to charge, he is subject to great danger, but the rest of the time, with reasonable precautions, he is, statistically almost as well off as in the streets of New York. Most of the drafted men may see France, which, by the way, will be beneficial to many of them. Since, however, the aeroplane appropriation has passed, there is good chance that but few of them ever will be engaged in serious fighting.

We believe that the war will continue until we have several hundred thousand troops and 10,000 or more aeroplanes in France, which should be some time next spring or summer. We, however, feel that by the time these men and aeroplanes are over there ready to do something worth while, Germany will have come to her senses. We see no reason for Germany to stop until we are actually in Europe with self-supporting bases, prepared to strike hard; but we see every reason why Germany should be anxious to settle with us at that time, before we do strike. Our regular army, and perhaps the militia, may get into action at any time, but the chances are four to one that the men who are now being drafted will see very little actual fighting in Europe. Even if they are required to do hard fighting, statistics are very much in their favor, and conditions are improving.

EAT MORE CHEESE.

U. S. Department of Agriculture Points Out that This Dairy Product is More Nourishing Than Meat and Should Be Used More Extensively.
Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—"Store" cheese—more properly known as American Cheddar—is more nourishing pound for pound, than any meat and therefore should have a prominent place in the diet as a meat substitute, says a statement issued today by the United States Department of Agriculture.

"Few people in this country eat cheese in sufficient quantities for it really to form an important part of the daily fare," says the statement. "Indeed, it is used more often simply as an appetizer or as a seasoning for some other food. Nearly every one relishes good American Cheddar or 'store' cheese, but there is an impression that it is indigestible and constipating. Extensive digestion experiments carried on by the Department of Agriculture have demonstrated that more than 95 per cent of the protein of cheese is digested and 90 per cent of its energy is available. Even when eaten in large quantities and for long periods, no case of indigestion, constipation, or other disturbance was observed in those who ate it. One man who ate cheese as the chief source of both protein and energy, eating an average of 9.27 ounces daily, with bread and fruit, for more than two years, did a fair amount of muscular work and kept in good health."

"American Cheddar cheese is a very satisfactory substitute for meat. It can be kept in storage for a long time, and contains much food in small volume."

"A pound of cheese supplies more than twice as much energy as a pound of fowl or round steak and almost twice as much protein as the same amount of fowl or lamb. Cheese, therefore, is usually a cheaper food than the meats."

"Cheese can also be combined in many palatable dishes. When grated it may be used in soups or with many vegetables. Other foods in which cheese is used are: Macaroni and cheese, Welsh rabbit, tomato rabbit, baked rice and cheese, baked crackers and cheese, vegetable and cheese rolls, cheese omelet, oatmeal and cheese, and cheese mush."

"Recipes and further information are given in Farmers' Bulletin 487, 'Cheese and Its Economical Uses in the Diet,' which may be obtained free on application to the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C."

PERU BREAKS RELATIONS WITH GERMANY

Washington, Aug. 10.—Failure of the German Foreign office to placate Peru had led to the breaking off of relations between Peru and Germany according to Manuel de Freyre y Saenz, Peruvian Charge d'Affaires. He said that the Peruvian government was not satisfied with the findings of the German Prize court in the case of the steamer Lipton which was seized by a German war ship.

EX PRESIDENT SHOWS SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT

Clay City, Kansas, Aug. 10.—William Howard Taft, former President of the United States, who is ill here, "shows marked improvement tonight" according to the physicians in charge of the patient.

AN EASY WAY TO PRESERVE CUCUMBERS AND STRING BEANS.

Try the New Fermentation Method Approved by the United States Department of Agriculture.
Containers: Cider or wine barrels, kegs, tubs, or crocks. (Do not use any made of yellow or pitch pine.)
Wash thoroughly and steam containers.

Wash your vegetables.
Remove strings from string beans.
Place on bottom of container a layer of dirt and a handful of mixed spice.
Pack the vegetables into the container.

When half full, add another layer of dirt and spice.

When contents come to within a few inches of top, add another 1 inch thick, of beet tops or grape leaves.

Press down with a clean board, weighted with bricks or stone (not limestone or sandstone).
Add brine to cover material.
Allow it to ferment in a warm place from 5 days to 1 week in a cool place, from 3 to 4 weeks.

After bubbles cease to rise, exclude air by either of the following methods:
(1) Set containers where they will not be disturbed.
Cover surface with paraffin but enough to make blue ball when poured upon it. If paraffin breaks, remove, and replace.

Or (2) Pack the container as full as possible.

Replace head.
Allow to stand for 24 to 48 hours.
Remove boards and weights.
Head up container tight.
Bore a 1-inch hole in head.
Fill container full with brine.
Let stand until bubbles cease to rise.
Add more brine if possible.
Plug vent tight.

Store in a cool place.
To make brine:
1 pound salt.
10 quarts water.

To each 15 quarts of the brine add 1 quart of vinegar.
Don't miss any step.

Most disgusting skin eruptions, scrofula, pimples, rashes, etc., are due to impure blood. Burdock Blood Purifiers as a cleansing blood tonic is well recommended. $1.25 at all stores.

NEW OFFENSIVE BY BRITISH AND FRENCH IS BEGUN

(By Associated Press)
The British and French operating against the Germans in Flanders have begun a new offensive and the first day marked strong successes against the armies of Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria. The British began their drive early in the morning and penetrated the first line trenches of the Germans on the entire front. While the action is at present only on isolated sections of the line the heavy artillery fighting indicates the forecast of a new extensive drive by the Entente.

Beginning with the break of day Field Marshal Haig's men fighting on the Ypres section took German first-line trenches between Pessberg and the Ypres-Merch road.

To the north the French have captured several strategic points from the Germans.

With the Canadians lying at the doorsteps of Lens and still tightening their grip on the important center of the rich coal region the Germans hold on the section is growing weaker.

Long delayed, the action is again opening on the St. Quentin front and the Germans launched a surprise attack on the French positions with large effect. Everywhere on the line the attack was repulsed with the exception of some weak places in the French center which were occupied by the enemy.

Likewise on the Alsace front the Germans began a new attack against the French but as before they met with the same treatment—defeat.

In Galicia, Bukovina and the South Moldavia section Berlin reports added territory taken from the Russians. The Petrograd war office admits no new defeats.

THREE CHARGED WITH MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

(By Associated Press)
St. Johnsbury, Vt., Aug. 10.—Information that little Alice Bradshaw, the crippled child of John Bradshaw, whose body was found at the edge of a swamp less than a mile from her home last evening after being missing since July 5, had been starved before being murdered was made today by Attorney General Barber. Mr. Barber refused to make public the results of the inquest which was held today but intimated that it was found that the child had been denied food and water for some time before her death.

The attorney general also stated that the county officials who have conducted their investigations in the case, have come to the conclusion that the body had been buried after the crime and was later exhumed and found but a few days ago in the swamp where it was discovered.

Miss Ella May Hicks, Mrs. Arvin Keniston and John Keniston, were formally charged with murder in the first degree today following the findings of the coroner's jury. All three have been held in custody since July 5 without any formal charge against them. It is alleged that Miss Hicks and Mrs. Keniston have confessed to the murder of the little girl because "she was a bother."

BOXING NOTES

It would be difficult to point to many programs that the Artistry A. A. has offered to the public in the past dozen years that have more class than the all-star bill that will be on tap at the Boston arena next Tuesday night.

There will be two feature bouts of 12 rounds each and either one of them would be sufficient to stand alone as the star bout.

Battling Brady of New York and Frankie (Young) Britt of New Bedford will meet in one of the twelve round affairs and Mel Coogan of New York and Freddie Yelle of Taunton in the other. There will also be two preliminaries of six rounds in which Frank Chaney and Young (Hitchie) will hook some steel and a big crowd of fans are expected.

Britt will have a chance to show the Boston fans that he is really master over Brady. The latter has twice got the award over Britt and each time the New Bedford boy dragged out a time-worn alibi about not being in condition. This is old stuff for fighters to hand out in these rapid times and if Britt can't deliver next Tuesday, he will have to get a new line of defense. Both bouts between Britt and Brady were very fast and hard scraps.

The ransy Freddie Yelle will need all of his speed to bring home the bacon when he meets Coogan. He is a very cleverly clever boy and he fights at top speed all the time. This will be a very fast bout. It looks as if Coogan ought to grab the award but this Yelle person is very cute and can punch real hard. He is very speedy and this may get him by.

The Most Beautiful Car in America

The Paige is now reaping the reward of conservative financial policies and sound business judgment.

The creation and the continued maintenance of the quality that has made The Most Beautiful Car in America the overwhelming choice of the public, are due to the advantages the Paige Company possesses. These advantages are:

A capitalization far lower than that of any other company approximating the Paige in the sales-increase during the past six months—in which field, by the way, the Paige has distanced all competitors.

Scientific management that keeps overhead expense down to the minimum.

Huge manufacturing facilities operated by modern, scientific methods.

Low profit per car.

There you have in a nut-shell the reasons you can buy Paige quality at so low a figure in these days of high prices.

The Public Market Agitation.

As a result of the high cost of living and the general belief that the trouble is to a considerable extent due to middlemen and food speculators, there has lately sprung up in some parts of New England, and other parts of the country as well, an agitation in favor of public markets—that is, places where farmers and gardeners can stand with loads of produce and sell direct to consumers in the cities and big towns, instead of having everything pass through the hands of dealers, who must have something for handling it when it goes through their hands, and who are commonly believed to be, in many cases, taking larger profits than they are justly entitled to.

The idea of the public market is not new. It is not an outgrowth of the war. It has been agitated more or less for years and has been tried in some cities with rather indifferent success, but the present burdensome prices of foods and the growing suspicion that there is no real need of prices being as high as they are has renewed the agitation in favor of public markets, and it is possible that the scheme may be given a thorough trial under the conditions which now exist.

One New England city situated in the heart of a fine farming region has opened a public market which starts off with every promise of success. On the opening morning many loads of produce came in at an early hour and there was no lack of patrons. Thrifty women were out of bed much earlier than usual and at the market with baskets on their arms ready to buy vegetables and fruits at first hand, by which they were able to make a substantial saving. Some men were also among the purchasers, though most of these were too proud to be seen with market baskets and carried suit cases instead. But they were not averse to saving something on the family supplies, and this they did, though it was the first time their suit cases had ever been put to such use.

Of course this is not a good thing for the marketmen, whose business it is to buy and sell produce and get gain, and who will not be put out of business by the public market if they will content themselves with reasonable profits. There are many people able and willing to pay what is right for the service the marketman renders, and the public market will give them something to judge by. They will know what is going on at the public market and the middlemen will have to offer reasonable terms to retain their trade.

Food Controller Hoover is convinced that farmers and consumers are alike suffering at the hands of the middlemen, and the people generally are of this opinion. They are willing to make allowance for war conditions, but they are not willing to be held up as they believe they have been for some time past, and will welcome relief from any quarter. The public market experiment has not yet been carried far enough to settle the question, but it is well that it should be given a thorough trial and it is probable that it will be, now that a beginning has been made which promises to meet expectations.

Doesn't it require some stretch of the imagination to believe that aviators are flying by night over Southern Utah to gather information to be sent to Germany via Mexico? Yet there is one wild-eyed investigator who thinks that is going on. The next thing will probably be a call for an appropriation of several millions with which to guard against this "menace."

One more step toward prohibition has been taken. The Senate has recorded itself as in favor of a constitutional amendment, but the matter must yet be passed upon by the House, and then the states have six years in which to render their decision. The country will not be bone dry yet awhile.

Forty Indians enlisted in Wisconsin the other day and the Chinese of Chicago want to raise a regiment. With these and a few colored troops mixed in the American army we ought to be able to convince the Kaiser that the United States is truly the melting pot of the world.

Utah is so bone dry under its new law that even the possession of a drop of liquor is a misdemeanor. It is this sort of intemperance that helps to block the way to real temperance through reasonable regulations of the liquor traffic.

Lord Northcliffe is reported to be ready to supply American publishers with paper at a cost much less than they have to pay at home. If he can do this he will be doing his "bit" toward carrying the war to a successful finish.

In some sections the potato crop is being ruined by plant lice, which are far more difficult to contend with than the potato bug. It will not do to size up this year's potato crop on the basis of the great areas planted.

Now some think an American army of 100,000 men in Russia would be a good thing. There is much to indicate that the Root commission did not succeed in eliminating the internal weakness of that great nation.

From the Exchanges

A Burbank Wheat

(From the Springfield Republican)
It is a "superb" wheat which he has created by plant breeding; it has got something that will revolutionize grain production in the United States by producing from 50 to 70 bushels of wheat an acre where ordinary wheat now yields 16 or 20 bushels. The world is going to need that kind of help and a newspaper writer who has talked with Mr. Burbank at Santa Rosa, Cal., found him confident of making his forecast good in this important matter.

The Hindenburg Lines

(From the San Francisco Chronicle)
In his book "Behind the German Veil," Dr. Heunert, the dashing young journalist who bearded the lion Hindenburg in his den, prints a photograph of the Kaiser taken by a German photographer and printed in Berlin, but promptly suppressed by authority. It is an unretouched photograph, by no means insulting to his majesty, but revealing the fact that it is a much thinner and more worried care-worn Kaiser than the official pictures. It is a study in remorse and defeat, and if Wilhelm is anything like it small wonder that he is not off on public exhibition. One glance at such a face would put despair into the heart of all Germany.

Our Popular Days

(From the Omaha Bee)
Meat-less, wheat-less, eat-less—they're all but right, but only with the accompaniment of cheat-less!

Healthy Sentiment.

(From the Pittsburgh Gazette Times)
Just now when we are hearing so much of the unfavorable side of the draft, it will be well to recall the Liberty Bond campaign. Ten days before the closing of the books on that loan failure threatened, according to official forecasts. But the actual results set a new world record for war financing. We have the men as well as the money, and the pending campaign will demonstrate our physical as well as financial resources and patriotism.

Reformed Beer.

(From the Hartford Courant)
The English papers tell of the introduction of the new Government brew. It was put on sale July 19. The London Times quotes comments on it as "not so bad" and "have tasted worse." This isn't high praise, but another statement gives it a better character. This says that the beer being asked for and a first glass was often followed by a second. The new beer is being made under an order of the food controller. The Times itself seems to have delegated the responsibility of tasting the drink to some of its staff and it reaches this conclusion:

"A question which is sure to be asked is why the brewers cannot produce a really satisfactory light beer. People who are familiar with the light beers of the Continent know that these are palatable and refreshing. It is explained, however, that the present reduced gravity ale is not a larger beer at all. Lager beer is produced by a bottom fermentation process, which is quite distinct from the top fermentation process followed in English breweries, and it is impossible to change from one to the other without altering the plant. This of course is impossible, and what the brewers are trying to do is to produce a light beer by a process which does not lend itself to the production of a really satisfactory beverage."

The last sentence is the important one. In the opinion of the gastronomic artist of the Times, the brewers are trying a process which cannot produce the satisfactory article. It is understood that brewers in this country are ready to bring out a beer with less than three per cent of alcohol in what will prove a popular and innocent beverage.

When Strategy Becomes Silly.

(From the Syracuse Post-Standard)
Will somebody please point out what military information would accrue to Germany by the announcement of the name of the Pacific port at which the Root arrived?

Indians in Navy! Why Not Army?

(From the New York Herald)
That Indians are permitted and even encouraged to serve in the United States Navy are facts which have attracted popular attention recently through the appearance in New York streets of young unformed "redmen" attached to warships in the harbor. Especially interesting is this policy of the Navy in view of the fact that hundreds of other Indians are petitioning Washington for permission to enlist in the Army.

The Indian sailors are declared by their officers to be loyal, industrious, obedient and faithful. So highly are they regarded that they may attain a rating. If some of these "original Americans" are permitted to join the army, and all those citizens who have interested themselves in the welfare of these wards of the nation are eager that Congress should give its consent to the organization of Indian regiments. As scouts and dispatch riders the Indians have proved their mettle in many battles and it is quite certain that if their desire to go to France is gratified they will add glory to American arms.

Richard Croker As to Ireland
(From the Brooklyn Eagle, Ind. Dem.)
Illuminative, very illuminative, is the Herald's interview with Richard Croker on present conditions in Ireland. The old chief of Tammany Hall is a neophyte in estimating currents of public opinion. He regards John Redmond as representing the truest Irish patriotism of today. He says: "Fifty per cent of the people now favor home rule; 30 per cent want a republic, and 20 per cent are divided between indefinite views and the blind following of England."

Honoring the Slim Fellers who "died like men for the Irish cause" Mr. Croker regards Sir Roger Casement as a traitor to Ireland as much as to England, and thinks he deserved death. The veteran insists that the destiny of Ireland is to be a republic, but the first thing is to whip Germany, because a German victory would make a republic forever impossible. He regards home rule as a stepping stone to the working out of destiny. It is our conjecture that Richard Croker's views do not differ much from those of the majority of thinking Irish-Americans. His opportunities for observation have been better than theirs. And there is no reason to think that he has any motive for what he says, save the motive of making something to American knowledge of what the truth is about troubled Ireland.

Line Up, You Boys!

(From the Pittsburgh Gazette Times)
There should be no age limit in the selection of major officers in the Army. Some men are forty years old, while others are fifty years young.

Dust to Dust.

(From the Wichita (Kas.) Beacon)
He was fired—shot in the nerves, generally all in. Quiet will help, he told himself. And so he asked for the open.

When he found himself, four miles deep in country, he stopped, perched himself on a fence and listened for the curative silence. But it was not there. Over in the field a calf bawled raucously for its mother. A couple of catbirds started a family row in a nearby tree. A locust and a grasshopper set up a chorus of chirping. His nerves were grated raw by a hundred unusual noises. The city held more of silence than did the country. At least he was accustomed to the noises of town.

In desperation he dragged himself to the shelter of the catbirds' tree and threw himself on the ground. Then came the crawling things—ants and bugs unclassified. And the heat of the day grew more intense. Flat on his back he lay, his pillowless head a mess of flutter of pain. He cursed himself for the lassitude that held him stretched out to the earth. And finally he slept, an unconscious, half-awake sleep, a nightmare of stupefying heat and buzzing insects.

After hours, more or less, of agony, he found strength to climb to his feet and begin the long drift home. Zowie, how his head ached! And then, wondrous of wonders! he who had been fired grew fresh as a boy, he who had been distraught became nerved like a whip. Brimming over with the marvel that had happened to him, he must tell someone about it. And the first man he met, as he swung down his home street, was his next-door neighbor, a physician.

"Your miracle is simple and unmythical enough," said the physician. "You lay for hours stretched out on the ground. The low position of your head made you uncomfortable enough at the time. But once you got up you found yourself fit. You've heard of nervous disorders being cured by mud baths. Well, lying on the ground is the same thing as a mud bath, only better and cheaper. It's this way: The earth is filled with and gives off magnetic currents. You found rest and strength by establishing close contact between your body and those earth currents. It never occurs to a patient to do otherwise."

Quaint Names in Maine

(From the Lewiston Journal)
Maine is famous for its quaint and picturesque names of places. For instance: Just off Ocean Point, a series of smooth, low ledges, rise from the sea. The Hypocrites, they are called. The name harks back to a story, almost legendary in its origin, of a man lost in the fog, who came upon these smooth, gray rocks, sloping up from the sea. Thinking he had come to a sandy beach, he ran his little sailboat upon them, and it was wrecked. And to this day these "granite isles" bear the name of the Hypocrites. Near the mouth of the Sheepscot, hidden behind a jutting point of Southern Island, with a narrow, winding entrance that makes it a most secluded spot, is Little Good Harbor. A perfect surprise, you may stumble upon it some day, calm and clear, with overgrown trees growing untouched to the water's edge, a gem in a perfect setting. But you can never find it again if you look. Little Good Harbor is for the startled, delighted gaze of the chance explorer. Over in John's Bay a narrow, rock-studded channel weaves its way from the inner bay to the open sea. At low tide it is a dangerous place for the unskilled, and even when the water is high it is no place for one unfamiliar with its hidden ledges. And through this little channel, the water is ever pulsing, now being pushed back into the freedom of the open sea. Thread of life some poet has named it.

URGES DRAFT AGE BE MADE 19 TO 40 YEARS

Gen. Edwards Favors Drafting of Husbands Where No Hardship Results.

Boston, Aug. 11.—The question of drawing upon married men with children for the new national army called from Brig. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards a declaration last night that the draft ages as fixed do not allow sufficient latitude for proper selection of the full man power of the nation. He also declared for the conscription of married men with children, tempering his statement with the amendment that such men should not be taken if it will bring hardship upon their families. "All men between the ages of 19 and 40 should be subject to the draft," said Gen. Edwards. "Men up to 40 years old have the physical fitness to make good soldiers and many other recommendations for military duty. Young men from 19 to 21 are also well able to bear arms. The most equitable range of draft ages would include these older and younger men."

From out of a wide diversity of opinion on the question of drawing upon married men with children for the ranks of the new national army, it is evident that but few Greater Boston exemption boards will follow the example of the Malden Division I board, which has certified as a conscript a man with three children and another soon to be born.

Most of the board officials interviewed declared that they will take no married men with children. Not entirely in sympathy with this attitude, although his statement declares that men should not be taken when hardship will fall upon his family as a result, is the opinion of Gen. Edwards.

"Every married man should go," said Gen. Edwards. "The nation needs every one of its men who are fit for military service."

"The soldier gets good pay nowadays—better than he ever got before. There is also much greater opportunity for promotion and consequent increase in pay. The draft boards should take even men with children—that is in cases where taking of these men will not bring hardship upon his family." Directly opposed to the principle of calling fathers into service is the attitude of the other Malden board, Division 2. This board has passed on over a hundred of its exemption pleas and, though it is taking married men, it grants the plea of every married man with children.

Not only this, but it has taken steps to provide that no men who may become fathers will have to go to war. The procedure of the board in considering claims from married men was outlined last night by Henry P. Morrison, secretary of the board.

"Both the married man and his wife were summoned before the board," he said, "and put under oath. If the wife claims she is pregnant, a temporary discharge from service is granted until the subsequent birth of some living child. The board determines whether the man will later have a child in his family."

"If the child is still born, the temporary discharge will be revoked. If the child lives, the discharge will be made absolute."

"Provision for the drafting of aliens should be speedily made," he added. "It is a gross injustice to permit those men who are enjoying the benefits of this government to escape their part in fighting for it."

Judge Thomas Connelly, secretary of the Boston Division 2 board, tonight declared that in the question of taking married men with children, the high-salaried man rather than the man who works for small wages should be pulled upon.

NAVY NOTES

McCray Promoted.—Chief Gunner Arthur B. McCray, formerly of the local navy yard and a well known baseball player has been promoted to ensign in the navy. McCray was born at Carthage, Mo., and is 35 years old. He first enlisted as a landsman for training at 18 at Indian Springs, Tenn., on Jan. 10, 1903, and from that date continued to serve as an enlisted man in the various grades until January 13, 1913, on which date he was appointed to the rank of warrant gunner in the navy.

Acting Pay Clerks.—The following have been appointed acting pay clerks: Howard P. Bowker, chief yeoman, navy yard, Norfolk, Va., born Jan. 3, 1853, Winona, Minn.; Cornelius A.

Brinkmann, chief pharmacist's mate, navy yard, Norfolk, Va., born Nov. 20, 1894, Reading, Ohio; Ervine R. Brown, chief yeoman, U. S. S. Bushnell, born Sept. 2, 1892, Union Star, Mo.; Hector J. Gosselin, chief yeoman navy, publicity bureau, New York, N. Y., born June 7, 1888, St. Johnsbury, Vt.; Roy L. Koster, chief yeoman, navy yard, Norfolk, Va., born Dec. 18, 1889, Brookings, S. Dak.; Henry C. McGinnis, chief pharmacist's mate, receiving ship at Norfolk, Va., born February 26, 1887, Linwood, Ind.; Ray B. Snedaker, chief yeoman, U. S. S. Bushnell, born May 14, 1892, Grand Ridge, Ill.

Visiting Navy Yards

Members of the Allied navy boat composed of British, Italian, French and American army and navy officers, accompanied by six members of the National Security League at Washington made an official visit and inspection of the Boston navy yard today. Arriving early at the yard they were received at an informal reception by Captain W. H. Bush, commandant, and Captain A. H. Robertson, executive officer of the first naval district. Following the reception they were escorted to one of the piers at the navy yard, and taken aboard a destroyer for a trip about the harbor.

The board has already visited nearly every other army and navy post in the United States on a tour of inspection.

Raid at Philadelphia

The long intended vice suppression campaign of the federal authorities here began at Philadelphia on Friday with a raid by agents of the department of justice on a Tenderloin resort. Without consulting the city police they entered the house and arrested twelve women and six men.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels for some time has been urging the city authorities to clean up the city as a measure of protection for the hundreds of bluejackets stationed here.

Labor Trouble at New York

Rear Admiral Harris, chief of yards and docks has been sent by Secretary Daniels to the New York navy yard to investigate the labor situation there. Some civil employees had threatened to stop work today if certain demands were not complied with.

WILL ASSIGN OBJECTORS TO FRONT LINE

Washington Has Little Sympathy for Those Considered "Slackers."

Washington, August 11.—"Conscientious objectors" will be assigned to the front line trenches, it was stated yesterday by General Crowder who declared that objectors in the United States will be treated as ordinary military prisoners.

Exemption boards have been told to show no exemption claims on the ground of "conscientious objections," and those who refuse to report to the national army will pass automatically from the jurisdiction of civil authorities to military jurisdiction. In England these objectors have been subjected to civil law and given full sentences.

In peace time a military prisoner is assigned to the most onerous work of the camp. Individual opinion cannot be allowed to checkmate the draft, military authorities declare and they have little or no sympathy for "conscientious objectors" whom they term slackers.

Gen. Crowder has in his possession numerous resolutions passed by objectors and the names and addresses of early slackers are already in the hands of the adjutant general. Men who failed to appear when ordered for examination are being located and kept under surveillance. A few days prior to mobilization they will be ordered before a military board and will become members of the army. Early arrests will be made of men who attempt to flee jurisdiction of local boards.

FARMERS MEET AT HAMPTON BEACH

Mid-Summer Gathering Aug. 29 to Be Addressed by Prominent Men.

Concord, August 11.—Commissioner of Agriculture Andrew L. Felker has been asked to prepare a most attractive program to be presented at the mid-summer farmers' meeting at Hampton Beach August 29.

The speakers include Governor Henry W. Keyes, the newly elected president of New Hampshire; still college, Ralph D. Hetzel; Hon. C. L. Woodman, assistant secretary of agriculture, Washington, D. C.; Charles P. Holland, president of the Plymouth County Trust Company, Brockton, Mass.; and Mrs. Mary I. Wood of Northampton, chairman of the newly organized Woman's League for the Promotion of Food Conservation and Substitution. The occasion will be enhanced by music furnished by the Capital City male quartet of Concord.

This meeting will be one of the most important to be held in the state during the year and should attract an audience which will tax the capacity of the theatre at the beach in which it will be held. The program should be of special interest to the war gardeners who have labored so zealously in the city and village gardens of the state to increase the food supply.

A reception will be arranged for the President Ralph D. Hetzel of the New Hampshire State College, who will make his first appearance in the state on this occasion.

The meeting has been arranged as late in the season as possible in order to afford the farmers who have been delayed in the work of harvesting hay and caring for other crops an opportunity to attend.

KITTERY

Kittery, Aug. 11.—A pretty home wedding occurred on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Charlotte Tuttle of Woodlawn avenue, when her daughter, Miss Grace Burnham Tuttle, became the bride of Mr. William Woods of Lawrence, Mass. Rev. Carl L. Nichols of the Second Christian church performed the ceremony. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and ferns, the bridal couple standing under a handsome arch. The bride wore a dress of white silk with lace trimmings. Miss Margaret Wyman of Marblehead, Mass., was bridesmaid, and E. A. Mitchell of Dorchester, Mass., acted as best man. A brief reception was held and lunch served consisting of sandwiches, tea, cream, assorted cake and fruit punch. Mr. and Mrs. Woods left immediately on a wedding trip and upon their return will make their home with the bride's mother.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Emory R. Currier was the scene of a very happy little gathering on Friday afternoon when their daughter, Miss Clara Currier, observed the ninth anniversary of her birth by entertaining several of her little friends. The first part of the afternoon was devoted to games on the lawn, favors being awarded to the winners; also music and dancing were enjoyed, with the Misses Landers and Meloon presiding at the piano. After the games the little guests marched to the dining room, where dainty refreshments of barbeque ice cream, assorted cake and candy were served. The room was prettily decorated, pink streamers running from the chandelier to the places at the table with favors on the ends for the guests, and the table was graced with a handsome birthday cake with nine lighted candles. Miss Clara received many pretty gifts from her friends, in remembrance of the day, as well as their best wishes for many more happy birthdays. The invited guests were Kathleen Meloon, Charlotte Clark, Violet Landers, Ada Abrams, Anna Frances Clark, Martha Wilson, Phyllis Wilson, and Dorothy Oimstead.

Lewis Willy has concluded his duties at the navy yard and with Mrs. Willy has returned to his former home in Meredith, N. H. During their stay in town they resided on Otis avenue.

Mrs. S. J. Scow of Medford Hillside, Mass., is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. L. Stanow of Kittery Depot.

The midweek prayer meeting of the First Methodist church was held with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Haley of North Kittery on Thursday evening. Prayer meetings will be held each week on Thursday evening unless stormy, then on Friday.

Joseph Banger of East Watertown, Mass., is passing the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson of Love lane.

Miss Pauline Goodwin of Dame street has returned from a visit to relatives in York.

Miss Carrie Doherty returned on Friday to her home in Boston after a week's visit with Mrs. William Laird of Central street.

Harry Hussey of Rogers road has been passing a week in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Emory of Rogers road went to Concord, N. H., today for a two-weeks' visit with relatives.

Mrs. Charles Paul of Elliot was the guest of Mrs. Harry Paul of Stinson street on Friday.

Mrs. Addie Phillips, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Mary Smith of Williams avenue, returned to her home in Woburn, N. H., today.

Miss Annie Parsons, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Parsons of Prince avenue, happily celebrated her seventh birthday anniversary at her home on Friday afternoon by entertaining seven of her little girl friends from 2 to 4 o'clock. Games were played after which refreshments of ice cream, assorted cake, fancy cookies and candy were served. The table was decorated in pink and white, and there was a handsome birthday cake with seven candles. The little hostess was the recipient of many pretty birthday gifts. Those present were Mildred Smart, Grace Cleveland, Mildred Bowker, Lena Cole, Edith Pherson, Lillian Shaw and Verla Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hall of Otis avenue are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Stephen Paul of Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garrity have returned to their home in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., after passing a week in town.

Mrs. Albert R. Colwell and daughter Dorothy of Kittery Depot went to Lynn today to attend the funeral of a relative.

A public Red Cross meeting was held on Friday evening at the Second Christian church, Miss Katharine McMahon of Boston being the speaker. The meeting opened with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" and closed with "America," Mrs. George Seaward presiding at the organ. Mrs. G. H. D'Amoreux, chairman of the local branch, presided at the meeting and in her introductory remarks gave a list of donations received since the last statement, and told how the money was being expended and what work the ladies are doing. The membership numbers over 300. After the meeting views were shown of scenes from the hospitals in France.

Messrs. James Webber and Russell Brackett are passing the week-end in Boston.

LEG BROKEN IN QUEER MANNER

Seabrook Youth Falls While Walking and Suffers Injury.

Hampton Beach August 11.—One of the most peculiar accidents that has taken place this season occurred on Thursday evening on the boulevard in front of the north end of the Casino.

Charles Locke, an 18 year old Seabrook boy, who is well known and popular on the beach, started across the street at a point nearly in front of the car starter's office. He stepped off the walk briskly and was suddenly seen to fall. When picked up by a bystander the young man's leg was broken in two places. He was not sure of how the accident occurred but he stated that his left leg twisted as he tumbled off the sidewalk. Dr. Theobald was called and rendered first aid to Locke who had been taken into the police station.

A few minutes after the accident, Jerry Locke who has cottages in the White Rock district and the grandfather of the injured young man, arrived with his machine and took his grandson to his home in Seabrook where he was attended by Dr. C. E. Hewitt of Newburyport.

This is the second accident which has occurred in practically the same place this year.

KITTERY POINT

Kittery Point, August 11.—The death of Mrs. Julia Todd occurred on Friday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hyland Mitchell after a lingering illness at the age of 83 years and 6 months. She is survived by her daughter and one son, Chas. W. Todd of Beverly, Mass., and two sisters of this place, Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell who is 93 years of age and Mrs. Melinda 87 years of age.

Plans are now completed for an outdoor suffrage meeting at the Kittery Point post office, the evening of August 20. Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead of Boston and Mrs. Post of San Francisco will speak.

At last Friday's meeting of the Equal Suffrage league, Mrs. Post of San Francisco gave a graphic account of the many humane laws which have been enacted since woman got the vote in California.

The ladies of the Congregational church will hold their annual sale and have party on Wednesday afternoon on the grounds of the parsonage. An entertainment will be held at the church in the evening. A fine program is being arranged and out of town talent will be heard.

Miss Susan E. Bartlett of Derry Village, N. H., is the guest of Mrs. Emma Adams of the Crockett's Neck road.

Mrs. Edna Brown and two children are visiting relatives in Haverhill, Mass.

ESTIMATE SEVEN HUNDRED WILL BE CALLED FOR DRAFT

Members of Local War Draft Board Completed the Examination of the First 150--Forty Examined Friday

Members of the local war draft board for the first Rockingham district completed the examination of the first call of 150 men on Friday in the effort to select the quota for the district, seventy-five men. Although it was not stated definitely it is estimated that less than twenty of the quota has been accepted and qualified, the others passing the physical test having claimed exemption or discharge for various reasons. All of these are under consideration by the local board and will later be passed upon by the state board. It is thought probably by the local board that the number may be increased somewhat by the second examination as the regulations have been changed to include many who were at first thrown out.

Within a few days the board will issue another call, likely for 100 men, and it was estimated conservatively by the board last evening that at least 700 men would be called before the board for examination before the full quota is obtained. This work must be completed soon as the war department will call for at least one-third of the quota to report at the training camp within less than a month.

With each succeeding day of the examinations the number claiming exemption or discharge has increased until Friday when forty of the fifty called reported in person and were examined. Thirty of the forty claimed exemption or discharge, mostly because of dependents.

Business with the war board went more smoothly Friday than so far since the board convened on Wednesday.

Forty out of the fifty called, put in an appearance and the board finished in the afternoon as far as the first 150 men are concerned. The record shows that four out of the 15 men missing on the first call have been accounted for leaving eight for the board to hunt up. Three of the five who failed to appear on the second call have been located, leaving two unaccounted for.

Friday up to noon, ten of the third call had not put in an appearance, but the board later heard from four of them, leaving six of the fifty somewhere in the United States. Nine out of 98 here are now ready for the national army, or less than 10 per cent of the first call. The war board, according to the outlook will be obliged to call seven hundred men or more to get the required 75 in this district.

Ten out of the 11 accepted on Thursday's list claim for exemption because of dependents. The examination of eight aliens was postponed.

The following list shows the name, number and address of the men asking exemption or discharge, and the reason for the claim, who reported for examination on Friday.

706, William K. Davis, Newton Junction, dependent, claim for discharge.
40, Bertram E. Gray, Stratham, dependent wife, claim for discharge.
1023, Charles H. Partridge, Portsmouth, dependent wife, claim for discharge.
1051, Karl L. Kimball, Portsmouth, dependent wife, claim for discharge.
1009, Charles F. Vetter, Portsmouth, dependent wife, claim for discharge.
229, Eugene N. Nason, Kingston, dependent wife, claim for discharge.

FOOD BILL BROUGHT ON 100-DAYS' WAR

Washington.—Here is the history of the hundred days war over the Food Control Bill.

April 30.—Representative Lever and Senator Gore introduced in the House and Senate, respectively, a joint resolution to stimulate agriculture and facilitate distribution of agricultural products.

May 1-2.—Hearings were held in the Agricultural Committees of both Houses.

May 3.—The House Committee divided the resolution into two bills, Food Survey and Food Control Bills, and reported the former favorably. This report was reconsidered and the bill was amended.

May 7.—Survey Bill again reported.

May 28.—Passed by the House.

June 2.—Passed by the Senate and sent to conference June 29. It was agreed to Aug. 1 and accepted by the House Aug. 3.

May 23.—Food Control Bill introduced, reported in House, withdrawn and reported again June 11.

June 23.—Passed by the House.

June 25.—Taken up in Senate.

July 21.—Passed by the Senate and sent to conference July 25.

July 26.—Conference met.

Aug. 1.—Conferees agreed to report.

Aug. 3.—Accepted by the House.

Aug. 8.—Food Control and Food Survey Bills accepted by Senate.

Aug. 10.—The American government today assumed control of the food supply of the United States with the signing of the administration food control bill and the food survey bill passed by the Senate on Tuesday and by the House several days ago.

Formal announcement of the appointment of Herbert C. Hoover as National Food Administrator was made at the White House immediately after the bills have been signed by the President and the new food dictator issued a statement to the effect that his work would be to "stabilize and not destroy the food situation" of the nation.

This statement was in effect that no drastic steps would be taken by the government but that an attempt would be made to conserve the food supply in the country chiefly through better transportation facilities and the regulation of prices. Drastic steps in the regulation of prices would be taken by the government, he states, if they were found to be necessary.

The first aim of the government in the regulation and distribution of foodstuffs would be in the distribution of foodstuffs and the regulation of prices of wheat and bread; and second in the regulation of meat.

Mr. Hoover said that the obligations of the United States compelled the country to look to the feeding of her allies in the war from our surplus of food.

"Out of the abundance and waste," Mr. Hoover said, of the foodstuffs in the country that nation can save enough from the surplus to feed the nation and our allies through the next year. The citizen must practice economy and failure of the individual to do this indicates the failure of the citizen to do his duty to the country and her allies.

The bills provide for great power to be placed in the hands of the President or his representative, Mr. Hoover, and the President's power in the matter of honors is the greatest power ever placed by legislation in the hands of one or two men.

the high price of corn and the fact that large stocks of whiskey are being held in bond.

Illinois and Kentucky distillers are working at top speed day and night in order to turn out the largest possible quantity before the law goes into effect.

At Peoria and Pekin, Ill., distillers told the United Press— their plants would be closed immediately when the law goes into effect. An effort will be made to obtain a modification of the law at the next session of Congress. They believe this will be possible because of the enormous corn crop forecast this year. Pekin distillers are said to have obtained government contracts but Peoria dealers say they have not.

Ernest Rhee, a Kentucky distiller, declared he would scrap his machinery.

Charles Hecmann of the Chapin and Gore distillers, Chicago, declared the law means the end of whiskey for all time.

Before long whiskey will be out of reach for the average man.

Washington, Aug. 10.—The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee's report on the war tax legislation to the Senate and without mentioning his name answered Chairman Kitchin of the House Ways and Means committee who charged that the Senate amendments placed the burden of taxes on the poor and lifted the tax from the corporations and the wealthy who were making money out of the war.

Chairman Simmons said that the Senate bill as rewritten placed the burden of taxation on the wealthy, the big corporations, and big business interests. He asserted that the bill as passed by the House was too easy on those making money through the war.

WENEHASA CLUB HELD ANNUAL OUTING FRIDAY

The second annual outing of the Wenehasa Club was held Friday evening at the Hotel Wentworth, New Castle, over 40 being present.

The party left this city at 7 o'clock in automobiles and upon their arrival dinner was served. John J. Hasselt was toastmaster and a telegram from Harold B. Wendell, Dartmouth '17 who is employed in government work at Washington, was read. Announcement was also made that Philip B. Badger, New Hampshire College '18, had just received his commission as second lieutenant in the infantry following his course at the Reserve Officers' camp at Plattsburg. After dinner dancing was enjoyed, music being furnished by Carl E. Bahr's orchestra.

The Wenehasa Club was formed May 8, 1913, and has grown to be quite a social order. The officers the first year were: Philip H. Sanderson, president, John J. Hasselt, vice president, Harold B. Wendell, secretary, Sherman P. Newton, treasurer. If the war does not interfere the club is planning a large ball at its fifth anniversary next spring.

The outing this year was also in the nature of a reception to Melvin Clark and Charles E. Brackett, two members who recently joined the members.

Several of the members have enlisted. They are Paul J. Conover in the Coast Artillery Corps, Dewey Graham, Frank Massey, Earl Bruce and Clayton P. Muirbridge in the Naval Reserves. The club numbers thirty-six members, twenty of whom are college students. The members are John J. Hasselt, Sherman P. Newton, Harold B. Wendell, Philip H. Sanderson, Charles E. Brackett, Shirley B. Simpson, William C. March, Lemuel Pope 3d, Frank J. Massey, Earl H. Bruce, Theodore R. Butler, Clayton P. Muirbridge, Philip B. Badger, Charles E. Thomas, Linwood H. Dunn, Thomas J. Craig, Wallace Akerman, Paul Conover, Justin French, Waldo Phinney, Arthur P. Davis, John R. Pickering, Irving Donnelly, Dewey Graham, Herbert Harrington, Frank Patterson, Jack Still, Mary Clark, Lawrence Currier, Wesley Smith, Philip Rann, Paul Bailey, Paul Badger, Mark Neville, John Cotton and Harold Wood.

Past Presidents John Hasselt and Philip Sanderson, together with the present officers, Theodore R. Butler, president, Walter Mulholland vice president, Waldo Phinney secretary, John Cotton treasurer and Arthur Davis, John Pickering comprised the committee in charge.

NEW COLONEL OF K. OF P. WAS THE GUEST

Col. John S. Carr, U. R. K. P., of this city, the newly elected commanding officer of the 1st N. H. Regiment of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, was the guest of honor at a banquet given at the Beach Inn on Friday by Lucilla's Company of Portsmouth. Covers were laid for forty guests and in addition to members of the local company a number of guests

MORE WORKERS ARE NEEDED BY RED CROSS

The local branch of the Red Cross has sent the following articles to the state headquarters in Concord where they will shortly be shipped to France: pajamas, 5 doz; hospital shirts, 6 doz; slings, 6 doz; abdominal bandages, 3 doz; bandages, 1 doz; wipes, 1 doz; washing gloves, 2 doz; bandages (rolled), 153; comfort pillows, 17; fracture pillows, 3; hot water bottle covers, 6; wristers, 15 pairs; socks, 11; floor cloths, 3; mufflers, 7; sweaters, 5; comfort bags, 52.

In acknowledging the shipment, Mrs. Hemick, chairman of the garments and surgical dressings says: "We appreciate the patriotism shown by our members in sending to headquarters this large shipment representing so much time and energy and wish to thank you in the name of the Red Cross. The shipment is very acceptable and the knitted articles particularly desirable and well made."

These words of praise should act as an incentive to the workers in Portsmouth to do more work. Portsmouth has always been behind somewhat in membership of the Red Cross and this seems a good time to increase the membership, the work and workers, for through one of the Boston papers honored us by saying that "Portsmouth had a hundred workers and twenty-five sewing machines." The truth is a different story and an average of 30 is all that can be counted on at the Red Cross headquarters and the sewing machines are a modest eight in number.

During the last week a class in surgical dressings was held at the Red Cross rooms and over twenty women availed themselves of the opportunity to become proficient in the making of different dressings sent out by the Red Cross. From now on these dressings will be made every Wednesday afternoon from 2 until 6 and it is hoped that many other women will help in this particular work for up to this time only a few dressings have been sent from Portsmouth.

The sewing will be carried on all day Monday as usual, and yarn for the different knitted articles may be obtained by applying at the headquarters and the Red Cross directions for socks, sweaters and mufflers will be given out.

It seems as if it ought not to be necessary to urge women to work at this time. Men are working. Men are going to the front and soon men are going to be wounded. It may be your son, your husband, your brother or it may be the man who has no relatives, but whoever it is the Red Cross is going to reach him, going to help him, going to comfort him and every woman wants to feel that she is "doing her bit" in the great work for relief.

THE HERALD HEARS

That Edward Titcomb (76 years of age) was lost several hours in the woods at Saco.

That he went out to pick berries and wandered from the right path.

That the fire department and police were summoned to find him.

That when found he had been injured from a fall.

That a carload of lobsters was recently sent from Maine to New York city.

That the lot contained 191 bushels and was the largest sent out this season.

That the question to be heard later, "Will the new ships be built go through the draw of the Portsmouth and Kittery bridge?"

That this matter is giving the Boston and Maine some concern just at present.

That the city council is likely to show a change of heart on the Middle street proposition on Monday night.

That some kinds of love grow cold but the brand that some men cherish for themselves is always warm.

That New Hampshire's automobile register has passed the 20,000 mark.

That many a mother cannot force or tease her son into washing dishes at home.

That she ought to know how efficient he is with the dish cloth at a camp where girls are included in the party.

That the people who are supplying poisoned courtplaster should have their own anatomy covered with it.

That automobiles that climb stone walls and toss the passengers into the ditch are never going over 15 or 20 miles an hour when it is all over.

That the woman who enjoys comfort in her low-necked gown during the heated season cannot see why a man should be so improper as to cast aside a hand starched collar.

BADGER GETS APPOINTMENT

Son of Ex-Mayor Successful at Plattsburg

Philip H. Badger, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Badger, one of the Portsmouth boys appointed to the place of second lieutenant in the United States army. His appointment, like all the others from this city is very pleasing to his friends. He is a graduate of the Portsmouth High school, class of 1913, and class of 1916 New Hampshire college, and member of the Kappa Sigma. He is recognized as quite an athlete and last winter was captain of the college basketball team. While in the High school he was very active in all athletic events and was justly popular with his classmates and associates.

In order to save delay applicants for work at the ship building plant, should send their names to The Herald by mail.

The silk hose manufacturers have decided to make the hose longer so that the girls can wear their dresses shorter.

The members of the Wenehasa club are highly elated over the success of their second annual outing and also to the fact that the weather man was so kind to them.

NO SIX CENT FARES BEFORE NOVEMBER 1

The Public Service Commission after ordering a six cent fare to be allowed on the Dover, Somersworth and Rochester Street railway on August 20 has recorded the new schedule be suspended until Nov. 1. The change was made in order that a public hearing can be held concerning the propriety and lawfulness of the new rates.

MAINE HAS NO CLAIM

That coming shipyard on the Piscataqua means much to Portsmouth, which was a thriving shipbuilding town in the old days. The distribution of $15,000,000 here by the government for the construction of wooden warships will for the time being restore Portsmouth to its ancient glory, and the prosperity of the city will be greatly enhanced while the work is in progress.—Portsmouth Herald.

On which side of the river will it be on?—Boston Globe.

For the benefit of the Globe man and our Blidford friends, will say that it will be on the New Hampshire side of the river. We are sorry to say that the location will furnish no claim for the leading daily papers of York county, who have worked overtime in their attempts to locate the Portsmouth navy yard at Blidford, which has furnished a little vaudeville on the side for the Globe.

SOUTH ELIOT

Services at the South Eliot Advent Christian church for Sunday, August 12 are as follows: Sunday school at 1:15. Preaching service at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. by Rev. Bert Sharpe of Rochester. All are cordially invited.

The Herald puts over the news every day.

LOCAL FIRM GETS CONTRACT

The contract for the lumber to be used by the government in the new barracks at Fort Constitution has been awarded to the Littlefield Lumber Company of this city. The requisition calls for about 80,000 feet of spruce. The first part of this order has been shipped and will arrive on one of the largest cars ever seen in Portsmouth. It contains 23,000 feet of framing material.

SPECIAL TRAIN WITH TRACK MATERIAL SENT TO SHIPYARD

Eighteen Cars Unloaded There Today by Workmen

A special train of eighteen cars, loaded with rails and other material for the ship building plant was sent to Newington this morning. A gang of 100 men immediately unloaded the cars. The work of putting in the tracks will start immediately so that all freight received can receive prompt handling. Shipments of materials are on the way from various big centres.

CHANGE IS NEEDED

Make-Up of Telephone Lists Causing Much Confusion.

For the benefit of the telephone company and its many subscribers it would be a greater improvement if the subscribers' list was made more plain in the books. People with the least defect in the eyesight are subjected to much trouble in distinguishing the figures, especially those of 3 and 5. Giving wrong numbers causes confusion to the operators and takes up considerable time on the part of the operators as well as the public. Possibly for the good of the service, the former type used in the make-up of subscribers' lists might be used again. However, a change is needed badly to check mistakes made by the public due to the poor make-up of the telephone lists.
